Global Hand Incorporated works currently with a small volunteer staff setting up Peace Education and English schools. Having schools all throughout Africa and the developing world is the aim. Some schools are already in service since 2006. The programs needs more continuous support for its ambitious services or schools may not re-open in Fall 2010.

90 percent of donations collected go directly to servicing the children and the schools. The SHIPAHUGS AND GLOBAL HAND staff are all volunteer. They train local teachers and build curriculum models unique to the problems in Africa and developing countries peculiar to each country and each community school.

Your invitation to 710 Global Charity network may hold the key to more than just keeping a school open but will play a role in a future of peace, security and poverty relief for all people Global Hands Services can reach, in plus you are supporting a charity and it is tax deductible. Your gift receipt WILL prove you are in the GLOBAL GIVING NETWORK and WILL entitle you to a special homeland connection wherever Global Hand Incorporated School or Development projects are at work. So be a part of the GLOBAL CHARITY NETWORK CONNECTION and see how it can help others and positively impact your life too. So start giving so you can start receiving. The universe is yours for the giving— and CHARITY IS A KEY...to open more doors than you can imagine...Try GIVING TODAY. Some of the family perks are,

Who says African-Americans are not interested in helping Africa. We will prove to the world that we care.

You will not find a more committed African-American agency on the International relief floor---they are the Real Charity solution makers driving restoration of a people. They represent the drive to take giving to another dimension. They have the experience to address some of the most hurdling development issues in Africa and they use education and training as a solution. Phyllis Craig, Masters of Science-International Human Services
